

Little Wars Update "D plus 7"

Another Little Wars is in the books. Thank you to everyone who made this event such a great success. This was YOUR convention, from the Board, Staff, Vendors, Re-enactors, GMs and to the Gamers.

Registered attendance was 531, which beat last year of 400 (under Covid). We had 162 events played out along with numerous demos. The quality of games and amount of players per game was phenomenal. The feeling in the gaming hall was electric, and atrium was packed with dealers. Of course there were some issues, but we will have a year to straighten them out.

Special thanks to our Convention Director Tom Kuczak for steering the ship. But please remember, we all made this happen. We will have a more comprehensive AAR after we crunch all the numbers and get the pictures

Hope to see you soon at the War Chest!

All of this made our jobs so much the harder. It seemed very vote was different because there were so many to choose from. Finally we had to pick, and even added an additional award.

Commentary on the Venue

Bringing an event the size and scope of Little Wars to a hotel is always a challenge. Many venues have not had that experience. Coupled with an unusually high turn over of staff in the hospitality, there is also dormancy many of these properties incurred during Covid.

We knew that they were not going to have microwaves and refrigerators in the room, but the BOD decided the $99 nightly room rate, more than compensated. The lack of staff is not germane to only this hotel but across the industry.

Perhaps what you did not see was the prompt and excellent service the hotel's event staff displayed, to our onsite needs. This helped make the experience so enjoyable for all.

We are learning to work with them, as they are learning from us. We will be at this site next year and all signs point to improvement. And yes the room rate will still be $99.
